21:31	Narenn	Hello Everyone, Thank you for joining GMAT Club UCLA (Anderson) Q&amp;A session today and a BIG welcome to Jessica Chung - Associate Director of MBA Admissions at UCLA - and James Huntington – Current MBA student at UCLA – who is also known as MBAreapplicant84 on GMAT Club.
21:32	Narenn	James isn't here yet but we are hoping him to join in couple minutes
21:32	Narenn	Today Jessica and James will answer your questions regarding applications, essays, interviews, and life at UCLA.
21:32	Narenn	There are around 33 chat participants and more are expected to join in couple of minutes, so it is humble request to all participants to adhere to the following rules during chat so that our guests can answer most of our questions
21:33	Narenn	1) Ask the questions one by one. Before posting your question, make sure the earlier question is answered.
21:33	Narenn	2) Do not ask profile specific questions e.g. What are my chances etc.
21:33	Narenn	3) Keep the question typed in advance and paste them in chat box when earlier question is answered.
21:33	Narenn	Dear Participants, this chat is now open for Q&amp;A. Please start asking your questions one by one.
21:32	Ergen	Welcome Jessica. Glad to see you here today.
21:32	Jessica_UCLA	Hi everyone and thank you for joining our chat today! My name is Jessica Chung, and I'm an associate director of admissions for the FT MBA program at UCLA Anderson. I've been with

August 20, 2015.

the admissions office since 2007 so I've definitely seen many students enter and graduate from our program!

21:32 nicoturrillas Hi Jessica and James, thanks for being here with us

21:29 gmatyogi Will UCLA consider startup work experience while studying at a University? Apparently, a few universities consider the work ex only after a student graduates.

21:34 Jessica_UCLA We consider full time work experience meaning after college but any activities during college is definitely looked at as well.

21:34 FurrowedBrow Hi Jessica. What advice do you have for re-applicants?

21:34 Jessica_UCLA Re-applicants are considered in the context of the application pool in the year you reapply, however, we want to see growth and development, both professionally and personally, in your reapplication. Any updated test scores or academic info is also helpful if you retook tests or classes.

21:35 nicoturrillas I have a question about career and resume. I had to replace the head of tariffs and regulation in my current job for one year (2014), and was in charge of all his responsibilities. It was not an official promotion, but everybody in the company was aware that my tasks had changed and that I was acting as interim head of tariffs. My question is can I put that in my resume?

21:35 Jessica_UCLA Nicorurrillas, yes please let us know in your resume or the optional essay.

21:36 nicoturrillas Great thanks!

21:35 Ergen Jessica, what is the attitude of adcom when an applicant sends more than required recommendation?

21:36 Jessica_UCLA Ergen, we now require 2 letters of recommendation!

21:36 pter233 Good morning! How much weight is put on the GMAT? Is it possible to be admitted if you have an average GPA, say 3.0, but a very good GMAT score?

21:36 Jessica_UCLA pter233, remember most schools evaluate MBA applications holistically, so while a strong GMAT can help make your more competitive, it's not the only metric we consider.

21:38 Jessica_UCLA GMAT and test scores are looked at to understand your academic potential in the classroom so a stronger GMAT can help balance a lower GPA, or vice versa.

21:37 jall Hi, thanks for your responses. Me and my wife are applying for UCLA this year. I am applying for an MBA but she is applying for a Master in other department. We will be able to enroll only if both are selected for our programs. Should I mention this in my application? Do you usually get in contact with other departments of admission in UCLA?

August 20, 2015.

21:37	Jessica_UCLA	jall, I would add that in your application as part of your "Why UCLA Anderson" case or in your optional essay.
21:38	Delamax	Jessica, could you please comment on the preferred reference providers – specifically, I'm curious about possible peer recommendation? Requirements on your website say that 'family members, peers and friends are not appropriate as recommenders', however there is no mentioning of peers as inappropriate recommenders on your July admission blog post. Besides direct supervisor at work (who is clearly 'must-have'), is it OK to ask a peer who is well acquainted with me and has been my mentor at college extracurricular activities? Or it is better to approach a senior colleague, either current or former, instead of peer? Thank you
21:38	Jessica_UCLA	Delamax, I wrote an entire blog post on recommendation letters! See http://mbablogs.anderson.ucla.edu/mba_admissions/2015/07/application-tips-.html
21:39	Jessica_UCLA	We prefer someone who worked with you in a supervisory capacity since these individuals can provide more depth and detailed answers to our questions.
21:39	KS15	Hello, Is TOEFL mandatory for Indian candidates even if undergrad has been completed in English?
21:41	Jessica_UCLA	KS15, yes the TOEFL is mandatory for applicants educated in India for this application year.
21:40	UCLA_James	My apologies for being a little late to the chat. I just wanted to introduce myself and answer any questions from a current student perspective
21:41	Narenn	Welcome James
21:41	Jessica_UCLA	Hi James!
21:42	UCLA_James	My name is James Huntington. I am currently in between my 1st and 2nd-year at Anderson. I am finishing up my internship this next week. I am working at Castlight Health on their Corporate Marketing team.
21:42	Jessica_UCLA	James is one of our Anderson Ambassador Corps board members and one of the best folks to ask about the Anderson experience!
21:40	nicoturrillas	Jessica, I'm visiting in the second week of October from Chile. Is it possible to interview during the visit, If I'm a potential candidate?
21:45	Jessica_UCLA	nicoturrillas, our campus visit schedule isn't finalized yet but I think there may be classes open the second week. If not, stop by the admissions office and we'll see if we can set you up with a visit.
21:40	Yash	Hi Jessica, Is second mba a red flag for applying at UCLA?
21:46	Jessica_UCLA	yash, UCLA normally does not allow applicants with an MBA to do another MBA here, but we

August 20, 2015.

		would need to look at your transcript and your courses to determine if there is a significant difference between your MBA and our program.
21:51	Yash	Jessica, how can I approach for this..How i can check my candidature if I am eligible to apply? This is regarding my second mba
21:51	Jessica_UCLA	Yash, I suggest emailing us at mba.admissions@anderson.ucla.edu so we can look into this
21:41	Sumit124431	Thank you James for being here. My question is why should we prefer UCLA over others business school?
21:43	UCLA_James	Sumit, that's a great questions. A lot of that depends on what you are looking to get out of your MBA. What I can say is that for me, I wanted a school with a tight-knit student community, a fantastic career center, and would allow me to switch careers. Attending Anderson has allowed me to enjoy and do all of those things.
21:41	jmcarran	Hi, can we apply to both full time and part time programs? Should I add that I'm applying to both in the optional essay?
21:43	Jessica_UCLA	jmcarran, no you must select which program, FEMBA or FTMBA, you want to apply to. UCLA allows only one application per year to a graduate program.
21:41	theincredible	Is the TOEFL mandatory even if medium of instruction was English throughout?
21:43	Jessica_UCLA	theincredible, the TOEFL is required for anyone educated outside the US except for a few exceptions as listed on the UCLA Graduate Division website. UCLA Grad Division website ---&gt; https://grad.ucla.edu/gasaa/admissions/ENGREQ.HTM
21:45	Delamax	1. Could you please comment on the dates of interviews with round 1 applicant? I believe that for many international folks like me, it is important to organize all visa and logistics issues in advance, so would be great if you can provide the range of dates when most invitations are expected to be circulated and interviews are expected to be scheduled?
21:46	Jessica_UCLA	Delamax, Our Round deadlines moved up slightly this year so I anticipate R1 interview invites will start going out about a week after the deadline and continue until a few weeks before the R1 decision release day.
21:45	pter233	How do you look at work experience from applicants? If I have 3 years of experience but all with 3 different companies/industries, averaging 1 year with each one, does that hurt me or does it not matter? It's been 2 minutes 😊
21:46	Jessica_UCLA	pter233, we really look more at the quality of your work experience rather than quantity. We may question why you switched jobs so often, so you may consider addressing this in the optional essay.

August 20, 2015.

21:46	indoMBA	Hi Jessica & James! Thank you for this opportunity.. I have several questions if it's okay.. 1) Post-Collegiate Activities.. Some B-schools require applicants to have community/social activities after graduation from college. How important is this for UCLA Admission? If I don't have any, do I have to start to do some in order to be able to get into UCLA?
21:48	UCLA_James	Hi indoMBA, that's a great question, and I can let Jessica answer from an Admissions perspective, but I will also add my opinion. I think it's important to show that you have passion for things outside of work. Don't just work of a charity to check off a box on your application, people will be able to see right through that. I am sure you are already doing something that you are passionate about that. Figure out a way to focus in on that as your extracurricular. It can be volunteering or it could be music. Just show passion and personality.
21:49	Jessica_UCLA	indoMBA, totally agree with UCLA_James.
21:50	pter233	Since we are on the topic, would consistently participating in a local flag football league that also engages in national tournaments each year count as meaningful social/community activities? It is something I am very passionate about
21:51	Jessica_UCLA	pter233, absolutely if that's something your highly passionate about
21:48	gmatyogi	Would you like us to convert our local GPAs and send it over? My college is very competitive and our avg CGPA is less than other colleges around?
21:48	Jessica_UCLA	gmatyogi, no need to convert your marks to a 4.0 scale. In fact, we explicitly ask applicants not to do that since we have the expertise to evaluate transcripts from around the world.
21:49	Delamax	3. Essay question this year is <...> what are your goals at UCLA Anderson and in your short-term and long-term career? Is the order important here, i.e. addressing UCLA goals first and then going to career goals, or the order could be reversed (as suggested in admission blog)? Thank you
21:49	Jessica_UCLA	delamax, that's totally fine. It's all about your story, organization, clear goals, why Anderson/MBA.
21:50	ChintanDave	Jessica and James, while I'm applying during R1 my Chartered Accountancy (CA) results might not be out and by the time they're out, it would be January, 2016 and if the Admissions Committee gives a reject in say - December. Would the application be reassessed given a favorable CA result?
21:52	Jessica_UCLA	ChintanDave, admissions decisions are final so we would not reconsider your file unless you file a formal request to appeal your decision.
22:00	ChintanDave	Jessica_UCLA , has a student been admitted in such a manner, i.e. by requesting an appeal, in the past?

August 20, 2015.

22:01	Jessica_UCLA	As far as appeals go, it's very rare for an admission decision to be reversed. I can't say it's never been done but I don't think I've seen any in my time in admissions. We are very thorough in our application evaluations and files are read multiple times before a final decision is made.
21:51	indoMBA	Q No. 2) UCLA Anderson is distinguished by 3 defining principles: Share Success, Think Fearlessly, and Drive Change. Can you tell me more about these principles? How are these principles embedded and applied in day-to-day activities at UCLA?
21:54	UCLA_James	indoMBA, those principles really describe the student culture at Anderson, especially Shared Success. Students here are extremely supportive and collaborative. I know that may sound cliché, but it's true. It's something that is very important to the student body and something we want to see continue. Culture is important and that is one of the main reasons why most of the admissions interviews are done by students. We are the closest to the culture and we want student that get admitted and ultimately attend to perpetuate that culture
21:51	entertainmentjunkie	Hello! I think I am a little late in joining so I am not sure if this question has been asked and the whole chat isn't showing for me. I will be taking a Math for Management class at UCLA Extension during this upcoming Fall. But I wanted to apply for R1 for the FEMBA program. Should I wait and apply for R2 instead? Also, thank you so much for hosting this chat!
21:54	Jessica_UCLA	entertainmentjunkie, FEMBA has a separate admissions office so I think you should ask them..email address is femba.admissions@anderson.ucla.edu
21:51	tarunktuteja	Can you please tell me whether Round 2 is more competitive in terms of scholarships? Does a high GMAT score but an average GPA helps in scholarship
21:52	Jessica_UCLA	tarunktuteja, both Rounds 1 and 2 are pretty equal in terms of selectivity, including for merit fellowships. Applicants are looked at holistically much like when we're making admission decisions, and award amounts also depend on the strength of your application compared to the rest of our admitted students.
21:52	gmatyogi	Also, do you consider applicants who consult for startups along with a full time job (moonlighting) or would you prefer people who focus only on their job?
21:52	Jessica_UCLA	gmatyogi, you can list that as an extracurricular activity, that's usually how I see such activities on applications
21:54	Delamax	Jessica, you've mentioned optional essay a couple of times today, could you please clarify – is this essay is intended only for 'extenuating circumstances' (like low GPA or inability to ask reference from direct supervisors) or we can talk about good important things as well that just didn't find their space at required essay?

August 20, 2015.

21:54	Jessica_UCLA	delamax, the optional essay shouldn't be used as extra space to answer the question in our required essay. It's there to address those extenuating circumstances or to provide more context/explanation for items in your application that could cause the adcoms to raise questions.
21:54	TC344	Hi Jessica, how does the admissions committee view the GRE vs GMAT? Is the GRE looked upon much less favorably? Also, do you have strict requirements to keep our resumes to one page, even if we have a lot of work experience?
21:54	Jessica_UCLA	TC344, we accept both the GMAT and the GRE. Both are considered equally, though GMAT takers far exceed GRE takers among applications so far. For resumes, I highly suggest keeping it to 1-2 pages max.
21:54	gmatyogi	I've heard from people that most of the candidates at UCLA move towards marketing especially work with Hollywood and applicants are chosen accordingly. Is it a standard practice or a stereotype which ppl associate with UCLA
21:54	UCLA_James	gmatyogi, there are a lot of students that go into entertainment and sports, and that one of the beauties of going to a school located in LA. However, the career interests of the students are very diverse, which is one of the reasons I decided to attend Anderson. A large portion of my class has gone into tech and is working the Bay Area. There are plenty in more traditional route like Investment Banking and Consulting. I really feel like the career interests of the students at Anderson are much more diverse than your typical top-MBA program
21:56	entertainmentjunkie	Hi James! I was wondering if it would be possible to PM you and ask you for your experience? I have actually been following your blog for awhile now!
21:57	Jessica_UCLA	entertainmentjunkie, feel free to shoot me an email with any questions. My email is james.huntington.2016@anderson.ucla.edu
21:57	pter233	Are interviews only attained when requested by adcom or can applicants request an interview? Are applicants accepted without interviews or is it simply the next step in the process for all applicants?
22:01	Jessica_UCLA	Interviews are by invitation only, and decisions to interview are made after a complete application goes through a thorough initial evaluation by the admissions committee.
21:59	manavkhurana	Is every student required to complete an AMR project in the second year, or do you apply for the program?
21:59	UCLA_James	Every student is required to complete an AMR project or equivalent. There is the Business Creation Option (BCO) that would fulfill the AMR requirement as well. For those interested in investment management, if you are part of the Student Investment Fund, that would fulfill your AMR requirement.

August 20, 2015.

21:59	gmatyogi	That is so cool. Would you recommend taking online courses on Coursera or Udacity to fill gaps for a low GPA?
21:59	Jessica_UCLA	gmatyogi, if you take additional courses, I would suggest it be through a community college, extension program or university that issues an official transcript with letter grade. Without these, we can't really evaluate how you did in these classes and consider them as part of your overall academics.
22:04	pter233	This question is related to a current answer. Do you accept courses that were taken for a letter grade from the University of Phoenix?
22:08	Jessica_UCLA	Supplemental coursework after undergrad at online universities should be fine, as long as you submit the transcript showing the letter grade.
22:00	Yash	If possible, can you share the essay topics for this year application?
22:00	Jessica_UCLA	This year's essay question: We believe that the best results are achieved when you share success, think fearlessly and drive change. With this in mind, what are your goals at UCLA Anderson and in your short-term and long-term career? (750 words maximum)
22:04	razakradityo	Q No. 3) Applicants must submit TOEFL/IELTS scores as part of their application, I just want to make sure does IELTS score really accepted (without any preferences to applicant who takes TOEFL)? Because I still hear many people said that if you want to study in USA, it is better to submit TOEFL score (vs. IELTS for Europe/UK)
22:07	Jessica_UCLA	IETLS is absolutely fine in lieu of the TOEFL. Both are considered equally in the admissions process.
22:07	Delamax	Could you please comment on accommodation policy – how many students receive accommodation at campus and what is the process of getting a living place (lottery?), especially for those with spouses and children? Thank you
22:10	UCLA_James	Delamax, I can speak to that a bit, but I would recommend checking out the housing info on the Anderson site. All the Anderson students I know that have children that wanted to live in university owned housing do. I have 3 kids myself and we live in University Village. It's a great community and environment for children.
22:08	ChintanDave	One more thing please, is deferral possible? Thanks
22:10	Jessica_UCLA	Unfortunately, we don't grant deferrals, so if you're admitted and can't join us, you'll need to apply as a reapplicant in the future.
22:08	entertainmentjunkie	I know that MBA programs highly consider applicant's leadership experience; however, what advice do you have for someone who doesn't exactly have the leadership experience at work but wants to earn an MBA to advance higher in their career? Would they still be encouraged to apply or wait a few more years?

22:08	Jessica_UCLA	entertainmentjunkie, I think that's a good question and you really need to consider your readiness for b-school at this point in your career. Talk to current students, alumni, colleagues, etc. and they can provide some insight on why they chose an MBA at that particular point in their careers. If possible try to seek out opportunities to develop your leadership skills, if not at work then in XCs or other activities.
22:15	UCLA_James	Just to add to Jessica's comments, leadership doesn't always just come in the form of managing teams. Think of project or initiatives you have lead. Leadership is about driving change, not just being in charge of people
22:17	entertainmentjunkie	Perfect thanks so much Jessica and James! that is actually really good to hear because I have talked to a couple of MBA candidates and they always seem to ask me how many years of work experience I have and how many projects I have been in charge of
22:09	gmatyogi	Does the admissions committee check the online presence of the candidate such as LinkedIn, Instagram, Twitter, Blogs etc. and give weightage to a good social presence?
22:10	Jessica_UCLA	Sometimes we'll look at candidate's online presence but honestly we are so busy it's not always possible. However, I will say anything online that's public might be seen by us, so be mindful of that!
22:12	UCLA_James	gmatyogi, I would also carefully look at your online presence for when you are recruiting for internships and a full-time job once you are in b-school. It's important to manage your personal brand beyond just an MBA admissions perspective
22:15	gmatyogi	UCLA_James I actually want someone from the adcom team to check my LinkedIn profile as it is not possible for me to include everything in my Resume and also Photography is one of my passions and I would like that to be validated via my Instagram Profile.
22:12	pter233	Do all accepted applicants get some sort of scholarship to help with the cost of tuition? If so, what would you say is the average amount awarded to each admitted applicant?
22:14	Jessica_UCLA	Not all admits receive merit fellowships but this year more than half our students received some level of fellowship. Amounts range from 25k to full tuition, depending on the strength of your overall app.
22:14	ChintanDave	Is the Eli Lilly Credit union loan facility, mentioned on the website available to all international students?
22:15	Jessica_UCLA	Yes the Eli Lilly loan is available for all international students as long as you meet their requirements. I suggest speaking with our financial aid office for details. Financial Aid contact ----> Andy Promsiri andy.promsiri@anderson.ucla.edu

22:14 razakradityo Q4) Current UCLA's GMAT score is ranging from 680 to 750. I haven't taken GMAT, but what if my score is below 680? Is it better to retake the GMAT? Or can I compensate the low GMAT score with anything else?

22:14 Jessica_UCLA As far as retaking the GMAT, it's ultimately a personal decision, but if you can retake the test and your score is below the 80% range, I would suggest doing so if you think you can raise your score.

22:16 tarunktuteja How do you consider a startup experience along with a full-time job?

22:16 Yash What are the approx expenses for MBA inclusive of stay and other expenses for an international student

22:17 Jessica_UCLA yash, program costs are on our Financing website
<http://www.anderson.ucla.edu/degrees/mba-program/financing>

22:16 pter233 I have a bit of a silly question regarding leadership. I am considered a leader among my closest friends and have been the commissioner and organizer of a highly organized 12 person fantasy football league for the last 6 years. Would you consider that meaningful or noteworthy leadership skills on an application?

22:20 Jessica_UCLA pter233, while that would be fine to note in your application, leadership in the workplace, in volunteer work, community service, or other organizations would be more meaningful from an admissions perspective.

22:16 ChintanDave Thank you so much Jessica

22:16 snehak85 How important is age a factor in considering an applicant?

22:16 Jessica_UCLA snehak85, we do not consider age as part of the evaluation process.

22:19 razakradityo thank you very much Jessica_UCLA & UCLA_James 😊 Thank you Narenn the moderator 😊

22:20 +++ ChanServ has given op to Ergen

22:20	Narenn	Thank you razakradityo for participating in the chat. 😊
22:21	Narenn	Guys, we shall continue only for another 5 minutes...If any pending questions please ask them to UCLA team now
22:21	Jessica_UCLA	Did we miss any questions earlier on? Please feel free to ask again in the last few minutes if we didn't get a chance to answer them.
22:21	pter233	Thank you!
22:21	entertainmentjunkie	Thank you so much Jessica and James! Really appreciate your both of your times 😊

22:22	gmatyogi	Do the Adcoms look at specific grades in specific courses like Probability Statistics, Operations Research etc or an overall undergrad GPA?
22:24	Jessica_UCLA	gmatyogi, we do look at your quant coursework when we evaluate academics. For those coming from nontraditional/liberal arts majors, your GMAT quant would be looked at more closely
22:22	TC344	Two quick questions: Is extracurricular volunteer work more appropriate in the resume or elsewhere in the application (such as leadership at church and in community events)? Also, if I was 3 weeks shy of graduating as a Navy SEAL, do you feel it's worthwhile to explain what happened with that in the Optional essay?
22:24	Jessica_UCLA	TC344, I would say either would be fine for that info 😊
22:22	Sumit124431	Do we have to write our essays formally or it can be informal too?
22:23	UCLA_James	Sumit124431, you can to make sure that it is well written, but make sure your passion and personality come out in the essay too.
22:22	Yash	Thank you Jessica and James for your time and efforts..It has helped us a lot

22:23 tarunktuteja Thanks Jessica and James
